

WATER TROUBLE

it was a very warm day and froggo was happy jumping in and out of the pond. froggo jumped on a big rock to dry his froggo skin. the warm sun made froggo fall asleep.

a big thump, thump, thump... woke him. it was ellie elephant coming to visit him. "move over froggo," she said, and with a big splash she sat down in froggo's pond.

"you big, fat elephant," cried froggo. "you emptied all the water out of my pond. where am I going to swim now?" ellie elephant looked silly sitting in froggo's pond with no water. she was so big that all the water had run out onto the grass and into bunny's hole.

suddenly bunny jumped out of his hole near the pond. "oh my, oh my...!" he cried. "look at my soggy ears. which silly billy nearly drowned me?"

he saw ellie elephant sitting in the pond and knew which silly billy had nearly drowned him. "get out of the pond, you big fat elephant," he cried. "look what you have done."

ellie thumped, thumped, thumped... away. she felt very sad. she had to get new water for froggo's pond. then she saw a big dam and had a good idea. she filled her trunk with water and thumped, thumped, thumped... back to froggo's pond. there she emptied her trunk. the pond was full of water again. froggo was happy. bunny was happy and so was ellie elephant.